Who is Venerable Father Isidore of Pelusium?

The son of pious Christians, Isidore lived in Alexandria during the fourth-fifth centuries. As a youth he withdrew to Egypt to Mount Pelusium, to become a monk. Isidore's spiritual wisdom and strict asceticism, combined with his broad learning and innate knowledge of the human soul, won the respect and love of his fellow monks who had him ordained a priest. Following the example of Saint John Chrysostom, Saint Isidore devoted himself to Christian preaching, teaching and counseling anyone who needed spiritual encouragement, whether it was a simple man, a dignitary, a bishop, the Patriarch of Alexandria, or even the emperor. He wrote about 10,000 letters, of which 2,090 have survived. Through the initiative of Isidore the Third Ecumenical Council was convened at Ephesus (431) where the false teaching of Nestorius concerning the person of Jesus Christ was condemned. Saint Isidore lived into old age and died around 436 AD. The historian, Nicephorus Callistus (ninth century), praises Saint Isidore thus: “He was a vital and inspired pillar of monastic rules and divine vision, and as such he presented a very lofty image of most fervent example and spiritual teaching.”

He Will Separate Them

“And he will separate them one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats.” So then, people on earth are intermingled, and not only intermingled in that the righteous live side by side with the wicked, but they are also indistinguishable. Between the righteous and the wicked there is no apparent difference. Even as in wintertime you cannot tell the healthy trees apart from the withered trees but in beautiful springtime you can tell the difference, so too each person according to his faith and his works will be exposed.

The wicked will not have any leaves or show any fruit, but the righteous will be clothed with the leaves of eternal life and adorned with the fruit of glory. In this way they will be separated by the heavenly shepherd and Lord. The earthly shepherd separates animals by their type of body, whereas Christ separates people by their type of soul. The sheep signify righteous people by reason of their gentleness, because they harm no one, and by reason of their patience, because when they are harmed by others, they bear it without resistance. He refers to sinners as goats, however, because these vices characterize goats: capriciousness toward other animals, pride and belligerence.
